Information is the most valueable things because it can be used for assist us in all aspect. Especially when finding jobs. With job opportunity information, job seeker can easily pinpoint which place to search and what kind of job will be offered. But, for those information can reach the job seeker, a platform is needed which is a website in this research. Newly created website usually will have small amount of information to start with. This became problem because website will have not mush to offer to the audience hence lower the audience count. To solve this problem, we can populate the new website with existing information that has been altered. Another problem will be the method to obtain this information.
