Abstract

In the process of building this country, capital is a necessity. Investment is one way to get the capital needed by this country. Therefore, the ease of investment continues to be improved by our Government. The purpose of the ease of investment is for investors to be interested in investing in Indonesia. One of the facilities that is currently in force is investment licensing services online using the OSS system. After the launch of the OSS system, businessmen in Batam City still find it difficult to process approval and licensing requests through the system. The purpose of this research is to understand more about Indonesian Investment Coordinating Board's (known as BKPM) authority in investment licensing after the OSS policy was implemented in Batam City.

The type of legal research used by the author is empirical legal research. This type of empirical legal research uses primary data types as the main data. Primary data is obtained directly from interviews with sources and respondents, then accompanied by supporting data in the form of library research. The author uses field studies as a data collection technique. Then, the author uses qualitative data analysis methods. The acquisition of qualitative data comes from observations, interviews and literature studies were analyzed, elaborated and concluded and then poured in a descriptive form and arranged systematically to answer the problem formulation in this study.

The results of this study, the authors found that at the beginning of the OSS system launch, OSS institutions as OSS system organizers were not BKPM, but the Republic of Indonesia's Ministry of Economic Affairs because BKPM was considered not ready to organize OSS systems and OSS system is made by Republic of Indonesia's Ministry of Economic Affairs related to investment licenses issued by ministries or institutions, so that BKPM needs preparation in accepting the organization of the OSS system. After the BKPM is considered ready, on January 2, 2019, the OSS institution then switches to BKPM.
