

UNIVERSITAS INTERNASIONAL BATAM

*Faculty of Law
Department of Law Science
Odd Semester 2019/2020*

COMPARISON BETWEEN INDONESIA AND UNITED STATES OF AMERICA ON LAW OF PREVENTION AND TREATMENT OF CHILD ABUSE

Name: Sabiena Marini Habibie
NPM: 1651033

ABSTRACT

Child abuse is presumably being regarded widely as a national issue that possibly comes to an end by emphasizing several kinds of aspects considerably allows to be restores or restructures for a better quality on prevention and treatment of child abuse, among those aspects is law. Several things are being emphasized to reduce size of scope of child abuse prevention and treatment including purpose and benefits.

Research methods use on this research are normative kind using various type of data that are generally being applied, which these are conducted before eventually data are being collected using a technique and after that it will goes through analyzing process to gain a result.

Result of this research is compiled from each juridical frameworks and data report being used on this writing by parse out and outlines articles that can be refer as child abuse and neglect prevention and treatment and after it is done, those result are being analyze using legal theories to earn a result which state is better on implementing child abuse and neglect prevention and treatment. On this case it is concluded that United States is better than Indonesia on implementing child abuse and neglect prevention and treatment.

Some recommendations are list down based on lacks that Indonesia had, which this recommendation is sent out to several ministry, institutions, societyn and citizen that possibly could implemented later to improve a better legal frameworks and project.

Keywords : comparative law, violence against child, prevention and treatment, Indonesia, United States of America, abuse, neglect, law