ABSTRACT

This Job Training report aims to analyze the problem of accidents that occur at PT.Sinar Sindo Sejati. Where this company is engaged in the sole paper distributor in the Riau Archipelago. Therefore the application of occupational safety and health systems is very important as a solution to reduce the high level of work accidents that occur.

This job training report last for four months and the first step taken by the author is observation and interviews with the company about what problems have occurred and the efforts made by the company already exist or not. And then the authors designed a system in the form of training for employees on occupational safety and health. Project outputs delivered to companies and employees in the form of training, installation of banners and signage on occupational safety and health and creating checklist forms.

The result of this practical work is to implement a system that is very helpful for company management in terms of OSH such as using PPE in accordance with applicable labor regulations and creating awareness among employees about the dangers of work accidents and creating a healthy work environment.
